SERIOUS BRITISH NAVAL DISAS.

AFRICA: LONDON, Feb. 25, 1894. A British Naval expedition, two hundred strong, against a slave-trading chief near Bathurst, met with a severe defeat, in which Lieutenants Hervey and Arnold, Sub-Lieutenant Meister, and ten men were killed. Captain Gamble, Fleet Surgeon White, Lieutenants Boyle and Savill, Midshipman Chambers, Gunner Berridge, and fifty-four men were wounded. The expedition took two villages, but while returning to their boats were attacked on all sides, losing a field piece and six thousand rounds of ammunition. Afterwards a party from H.M.S. Alecto attempted to land at the seaboard town of Gorjor, but were driven back under a heavy fire.

The London correspondent of the Manchester Guardian asys :- I hear from a wellknown East India merchant that the recent reduction by the P. and O. Company, of freights of twist or cotton from India to Japan is likely to have a prejudicial effect: upon the Lancashire export trade. The freights in question have been reduced from 17 rs. to 2 rs. per ton. If the ropes be valued at 1s. Sal, the reduction means that Bombay manufactured yarn will be conveyed from India to Japan (5,775 miles) at 21. 6d. a ton, whereas the rate between London and Japan (11,601 miles) is 11, 10s. a ton, in addition to railway charges. MASONIC BALL.

A writer in a London 'society paper' responsible for the statement that the ordinary Englishman is soundalised by any. thing that intersets or amuses him: his oriterion of a first-rate entertainment, after he is satisfied as to the splendours of its "appearance, is that he shall not understand it and that it shall bore him. His recompense for the tedium of the martistic or inside of it is the intense unreality Without suggesting the Telightest modicum of disparagement; some of these remarks might have been written apropos of the brilliant entertainment which took place in the City Helbackt night. It is to be hoped none went away uninterested in or bored with the entertainment in which he had taken part,; and that all were more or less amused; but there may writer's idea, of an fordinary. Englishman'-people, who, while satisfied with the artistic magnificence and splendour, failed to understand what it was all about and who were impressed with the (intensi unreality of the outside." There are some people to:whom the mere effort of living i 'intense.' There are others-presumably an overwhelming majority—who take things pretty much as they find them, and who find interest, amusement and enjoyment in the social movements of the mement without agonising their minds over psychological impressions or idealistic cravings.

There cannot be the least doubt that the ball given by the Freemasons of Hougkong i the City Hall last night was one the smartest social functions which ha been given here for some years. As a mere ball-a thing of 'flings and springs and close-besomed whirlings '-it may have left much to be desired, for, on account of the comprehensive nature of the invitations. the numbers present prevented anything like a comfortable dance till some time after supper, when the floors of the ballrooms became less crowded. Otherwise, it was a grand success. The decorations were lavish and artistic; the dresses of the ladies were pretty; the dresses of the majority of the gentlemen were for once relieved from simple black and white by military and naval uniforms and multi-coloured regalia and decorations the ancient order; and the music supplied by the band of the 1st Shropshire Light Infantry, under the talented leadership of Bandmaster Murphy, was excellent.

Of the decorations it is impossible to speak too highly, and it is doubtful if more elaborate preparations were ever made before in Hongkong for an entertainment of a similar nature. The Decoration Committee was composed as follows :-- Mesars W. Danby (Convener), F. W. Edwards, G. South, S. M. Fennell, R. Cooke, A. Ewing S. L. Darby, W. Newton, G. A. Caldwell, T. Spofford, J. Kirkwood, C. T. Roand Capt. Tillett (Hon. While all these gentlemen faithfully carried out the petails entrusted to them, it is not overstepping the mark that a considerable share of for the success achieved section of the entertainment ought to be bestowed upon Mr South, who worked untiringly for several days at the City Hall. The lantern festival does not occur. properly speaking, until to-morrow. we have had celebrations of it in Nanking every day for four or five days past. streets have been enlivened by long processions of men and boys bearing large lauterns of various forms, chief of which is that of the dragon, sometimes forty or fifty feet in length, made in sections painted in many colours and borne by thirty or forty looks quite uncanny as it winds its way promote. through the narrow streets of the city, especially when the hearers stop to exercise | prize-fighting ! it, causing it to coil and uncoil in very life-Lke fashion. Other lanterns are in the shape of large fish, crabs, and cranes, the latter made to stretch out their long nocks cowards the observers as if about to take off some one's head. One procession had in it two real 'Ferris wheels,' each one carrying four little girls around in swings as it slowly revolved. There were men in rode sedately in the rear. The whole observance seems rather childish in our eyes, but it suits the Oriental taste and is on a par with the Carnival which is kept up with such onthusiasm in the southern countries of Europe and America. Yesterday (Sunday) afternoon, while procession was passing the barracks on Dram Tower Hill, the soldiers gathered in the street and on the wall to fire salutes and watch the evolutions of the dragon, It was the dinner hour and the cook let a good fire burning in the kitcheu. fact, it was too good a fire and before he remembered his kettles the whole camp was in a blaze. There were forty or fifty thatched huts in the enclosure and within a few moments the whole place was a pile of ashes. ' What do you mean F 'Simply that this prize-fighting has degenerated from pure sport to gambling, and the moral sense of the people is aroused against it and ories for its suppression. The that thousands must witness it in order to defray them. The newspapers take it up and it becomes nutorious. Law makers are appealed to by their constituents and laws ! are passed making prize-fighting illegal and consequently disreputable. I believe it has seen its day. Some years ago spaning and fighting contests were engaged in through pure spirit of sport. They took place: privately and quietly, and very little money changed hands over them: 'How did you come to frame the famous prize ring rules that bear your name?' the reporter inquired.

'I'm glad you asked that question,' the Marquis responded quickly, for I always wanted to set the world right as to the true authorship of those rules. They drawn up by John Chambers, a classmate of mine at Cambridge, and subsequently editor of Land and Water. He died some years ago. He brought them to me to revise. I made two or three slight alterations in them and they were adopted, and ouriously enough, they bore and still bear my name. The rules were never designed for the prize ring, but soleivate sovere glove contests. They are much too severe for bare knuckles. In fact, their purpose was to disqualify any person who resorted to slogging, which is men. From a distance such an image the very practice they are to-day used to !

Jabez Spencer Balfour was born in 1843; He was the son of a marine-store dealer at Ohelsea, who was also engaged in temperance and religious work in and around London. His mother, Mrs Clara Balfour was well known as a writer and lecturer on temperance and religious questions. Subequently the father became a messenger in the Ways and Means Office of the House of Commons, and by his influence in that capacity was enabled to place Jabez with a irm of parliamentary agents in Westminster. He entered Parliament as a Radical, sitting first for Tamworth from 1880 to 1885, was subsequently unsuccessful at Croydon and Newington, was then reurned unopposed for Burnley at a by election in 1889, and lastly, by a large majority, headed the poll for the same borough 1892. THE CHINA REVIEW. PUBLISHED BI-MONTHLY.

THIS Review, which was intended to meet the wants of many students of Chinese caused by the discontinuance of ' Notes and Queries on China and Japan, has reached its Twenty-first Volume. The Review discusses those topics which are uppermost in the minds of students of the Far East, and about which every intelligent person connected with China or Japan is desirous of acquiring trustworthy information. It includes many interesting Notes and original Papers on the Arts, Sciences, Ethnology, Folklore, Geography, History, Literature, Mythology, Natural History, Antiquities, and Social Manners and Customs, etc., etc., of China, Japan, Mongolia, Tibet, and the Far East generally. Recently a new departure has been taken, and the Review now gives papers on Trade, Commerce, and Descriptive notes of Travel by well-known writers. It was thought that by extending the scope of the Review in this direction, the Magazine would be made more generally

The Review department receives special North Kwei Chou. attention, and endeavours are made to The Wilds of Hu-peh present a careful and conoise record of Sz Ch'uan Plants. Literature on China etc., and to give critiques embodying aketches of the Most recent works on such topics. Authors and Messrs. Lane, Crawrord & Co., and Publishers are requested to forward works Messrs. Kelly & Walsh, Limited to Editor, China Review, care of China

Mail Office. The Notes and Queries are still continued | CANADIAN and form an important means of obtaining from and diffusing among students knowledge on obscure points.

The Correspondents' column also affords farther and greater facilities for the interchange of views and discussion of various Original contributions in Chinese, Latin, or my of the Modern Languages are received. The papers are contributed by the members of the various Consular, the Imperial Customs, and Hongkong Services, and also by the Missionary bodies amongst whom a high degree of Chinese scholarship is assiduously cultivated. Amongst the regular contributors are Drs. Chalmers, Kitel, Bretschneider, and Hirth, Professor Legge, and Mesars Balfour, Watters, Stent, Phillips, MacIntyre, Groot, Jamieson, Faber, Kopsch, Parker, Playfair, Giles, Piton, and Taylor,—all well-known names, indicative of sound scholarship and thorough mastery of their subject.

The China Review for September-October fully maintains the high standard of excellence which characterises that publication, and altogether forms a very interesting and readable number. Meteorologists will find an interesting and valuable contribution by Dr. Fritsche, on "the Amount of Precipitation (Rain and Snow) of Peking," showing the results. of observations made at the Imperial Rusalan Observatory at Peking, from 1841 to "Notes on the Dutch Occupation of Formoss," by Mr. Geo. Phillips, contains some interesting information, although much of it is second-hand. The Notices of New Books include a most generous and appreciative review of "The Divine Classic of Nan-Hua," and the Notes and Queries are as usual very interesting. -North-China Daily Nows. A few short notices of New Books and a number of Notes and Queries, one of which "On Chinese Oaths in Western Borneo and Java" might appropriately have been placed under a separate heading, complete the number.'—H.K. Daily Press.

Trubner's Oriental Record contains the following notice of the China Review:-The present publication, judging by the number now before us, is intended to compy a position, as regards China and the neighbouring countries, some what similar to that which has been filled in India by the Calcutta Review. The great degree of attention that has been bestowed of late years upon the investigation of Chinese literature, antiquities, and social developments, to say nothing of linguistic studies, has led to the accumulation of important stores of information, rendering some such channel of publicity as is now provided extremely desirable; and contributions of much interest may fairly be looked or from the members of the foreign commular services, the Chinese Customs' corps, and the missionary body, among whom a high degree of Chinese scholarship is now assiduously cultivated, and who are severally represented in the first of the Review by papers highly creditable to their respective authors Bome translations from Chinese novels and plays are marked by both accuracy and freshnoss of style; and an account of the career of the Chinese poet-statesman of the eleventh century, Su Tung-p'o, by Mr. E. C. Bowrs, is not only historically valuable, but is also distinguished by its literary grace. Beside notices of new books relating to China and the East, which will be a useful feature of the Beview, if carried out with punctuality and detail, we are glad to notice that 'Notes and Queries' are destined to find a place in its pages also. It is to be hoped that this opening for contributions ca Chinase subjects may evoke a similar decree of literary west to that which was displayed during the lifetime of its predecomor in the field, and that the China Review may receive the support necessary to Insure
